Christ Church may collect this information in a variety of ways. For example, data might be collected through application forms, obtained from passports or other identity documents such as driving licences; from forms completed by employees at the start of or during employment; from correspondence with employees; or through interviews, meetings or other assessments.

In some cases, Christ Church may collect personal data about its employees from third parties, such as references supplied by former employers, information from employment background check providers, information from credit reference agencies and information from criminal records checks permitted by law. In most cases, Christ Church will only seek information from third parties with the prior consent of the employee(s) in question.

Why We Collect and Use This Information

Christ Church needs to process personal data to enter into an employment contract with its employees and to meet its obligations under employee employment contracts. For example, Christ Church needs to process employee personal data to provide an employment contract, to pay an employee in accordance with their employment contract and to administer entitlements such as pension benefits.

In some cases, Christ Church needs to process data to ensure that it is complying with its legal obligations. For example, it is required to check an employee's entitlement to work in the UK, to deduct tax, to comply with health and safety laws.

Processing employee data allows Christ Church to:

- Run recruitment and promotion processes;
- Develop an overview of the school's workforce and how it is deployed.
- Maintain accurate and up-to-date employment records and contact details (including details of who to contact in the event of an emergency), and records of employee contractual and statutory rights;
- Enable Individuals to be paid and make PAYE and pension contributions.
- Operate and keep a record of disciplinary and grievance processes, to ensure acceptable conduct within the workplace;

- Operate and keep a record of employee performance and related processes, to plan for career development, and for succession planning and workforce management purposes;
- Operate and keep a record of absence and absence management procedures, to allow effective workforce management and ensure that employees are receiving the pay or other benefits to which they are entitled;
- Obtain occupational health advice, to ensure that Christ Church complies with duties in relation to individuals with disabilities, meet its obligations under health and safety law, and ensures that employees are receiving the pay or other benefits to which they are entitled;
- Operate and keep a record of other types of leave (including maternity, paternity, adoption, parental and shared parental leave), to allow effective workforce management, to ensure that Christ Church complies with duties that employees are receiving the pay or other benefits to which they are entitled;
- Ensure effective general HR and business administration;
- Provide references on request for current or former employees;
- Respond to and defend against legal claims; and
- Fulfil any statutory reporting obligations.

Some special categories of personal data, such as information about health or medical conditions, are processed to carry out employment law obligations (such as those in relation to employees with disabilities). Where Christ Church processes other special categories of personal data, such as information about ethnic origin, sexual orientation, religion or belief, this is for the purposes of equal opportunities monitoring. Data that Christ Church uses for these purposes is anonymised or is collected with the express consent of employees, which can be withdrawn at any time. Employees are entirely free to decide whether to provide such data and there are no consequences of deciding against this.

3. The lawful basis on which we use this information

Our lawful basis for collecting and processing workforce information is defined in GDPR under Article 6. The following elements of the article apply:

- a) Consent: where you have given Christ Church clear consent to process your personal data for a specific purpose
- b) Contract: the processing is necessary for a contract you have with Christ Church
- c) Legal obligation: the processing is necessary for Christ Church to comply with the law.
- d) Vital interests: the processing is necessary to protect someone's life.

Our lawful basis for collecting and processing workforce information is further defined under Article 9, in that some of the information we process is deemed to be sensitive, or special category data. The following elements of the article apply:

- a) Where you have given your explicit consent to the processing of personal data for one or more specified purposes
- b) processing is necessary for the purposes of carrying out the obligations and exercising specific rights of the controller or of the data subject in the field of employment and social security and social protection law.
- c) processing is necessary for the purposes of preventive or occupational medicine, for the assessment of the working capacity of the employee.

Collecting Workforce Information

We collect your personal information via application forms, data collection forms and electronic staff portal.

A full breakdown of the information we collect on our workforce can be found in the school's data mapping document.

On some occasions, we process personal information on the basis of consent, for example, when we wish to take photo images for social media or school newsletters. Consent can be withdrawn at any time. We will make this clear when we ask for consent and explain how consent can be withdrawn.

Storing and Protecting Workforce data

Christ Church will hold employees personal data for the duration of their employment. The period for which detailed employee data is held after the end of employment is six years, and limited employment data is retained indefinitely for historical purposes.

As part of the recruitment process, data will be held for a period of 6 months for unsuccessful candidates.

We have data protection policies and procedures in place, including strong organisational and technical measures, which are regularly reviewed. Further information can be found on our website.
